Workshop Description:

In this 2-hour continuing education workshop, Ofer Zur, PhD, the founder of Zur Institute, will review current standards of care that all psychotherapists, counselors, licensed marriage and family therapists, and social workers need to maintain. Dr. Zur will outline 23 specific ways in which licensed psychotherapists need to pay close attention to their practice in order to avoid board complaints or civil lawsuits and keep their licenses.

Dr. Zur will also briefly attend to the some of the complex issues related to therapists engaging with clients via texting and social media, the ethical concerns around patient diversity in therapy, and some of the main ethical considerations arising from the COVID-19 pandemic and the new era of telemental health.

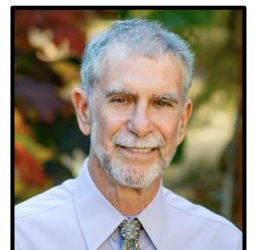

After completing this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Differentiate between ethical, legal, clinical, and risk management aspects of cases.
- Identify the three most common complaints of state licensing boards filed against licensed psychotherapists and counselors.
- Describe the difference between boundary crossings and boundary violations.
- Identify the differences among various types of consultations.
- List at least three ethical considerations and challenges for mental health professionals arising out of the COVID-19 pandemic.
